Physicians of That Section Revolt Against Alleged Favoritism Shown to Their Downtown Colleagues

CLAIM PARTIAL VICTORY

The attempt of Frankford physicians, united almost as a solid phalanx, to oust Emmett O'Neal and Charles J. Russell, for years members of the Board of Trustees of the Frankford Hospital, made at the annual meeting of the hospital last night, because these men, according to Frankford doctors, were prone to favor the downtown physicians, was a partial Frankford doctors are guarding their interests jealously, but they say they feel the effort last night was not a failure, in spite of the fact that their candidates, S. Walter Foulkrod and John Walton, were defeated 2 to 1 by Emmett O'Neal, who was re-elected, while James McMaster was chosen to take the place of Charles J.

Some assert that Russell knew he could Some assert that Russell knew he could not be elected, and refused to have his name submitted. Others hold he wanted peace, "peace at any price" and so he sacrificed himself.

For the last year, there has been a feeling among the physicians of Frankford, that the board of trustees are prone to favor the downtown physicians, ac-ford, that the board of trustees are prone to favor the downtown physicians, ascording to S. Walter Foulkrod, when asked about the situation this morning.

Mr. Foulkrod is the attorney whom the doctors called in to help them out of their difficulty. He was not a member of the Frankford Hospital Corporation, so sent in his $5 fee and an application for membershif. He was taken in as a member and ran on the doctor's ticket for a member of the board of trustees. Letters and telephone calls had been going the rounds of Frankford for days in an effort to elect Walton and Foulkrod.

"I think that the corporation did the

I am not the least bit disgruntled because I was defeated. I consider Mr. McMaster one of Frankford's strongest and best men, and I am glad he has been elected. I think that as a result of the meeting last night, there is a better felling meeting last night, there is a better rolling between the doctors and the trustees than there has been for a long time."

When asked what the trouble was, one of the pro-doctor faction said this morn-ing. "The entire trouble grew out of the disposition of the trustees to adopt a pol-icy of having two downtown men, one the icy of having two downtown men, one the chief surgeon and the other the physician-in-chief, as the practical medical board of the Frankford Hospital.

"Prior to 1915 the hospital medical staff virtually constituted the medical board. The Frankford physicians met as a board and made recommendations. These the trustees acted on. This policy was changed in February, 1915, and the Frankford men were ignored," he added, "and the result was dissatisfaction, which has grown."

DR. LYON ADDRESSES DELAWARE STUDENTS

Evangelist Discusses Some Simple but Vital Principles of Life and Conduct

NEWARK, Del., Feb. 1.-Students of Delaware College and the Women's Col-lege as well as citizens of Newark gave Dr. Milford H. Lyon, the evangelist who conducting a successful campaign in imington, a rousing reception when he meeting was held in the college oratory, which was crowded. Doctor Lyon's sermon was often interrupted by applause and the evangelist was given the college

'yell" when he concluded. Doctor Lyon, who was formerly president of a college in lowa, talked on "First Things First." He said that next to his own home, the Lyons' Den, there was no place where he would rather be than among students. Doctor Lyon said many people, were property expending small. people were prone to emphasize small things and depreciate large things. "Too many took through the wrong end of the telescope. They see little things big and big things little." he said. He urged the sity of students taking care of their health.

"Tell me what you cat and I will tell you what what you are," the evangelist said. "If you had a racehorse you would keep it in good physical condition to win all the time. It is the same with you students. You should keep in physical health all the time. I am glad to see that sirls are taking more physical students. You should keep in physical health all the time. I am glad to see that girls are taking more physical exercise these days."

Dector Lyon said one of the great dangers of today in colleges was the placing of the big man in athletics above the big man in studies.

"It is what you are above your neck that wins, and not what is below your neck. The world wants the man with

SALOONKEEPER BOSCH BELIEVES DEFENSE IN MOHR IN "FLAGGING" DRUNKARDS

Calls Verdicts Against Rum Sellers Who Ignore Wives' Requests Entirely Just

Says Mrs. Alexander Authorized Him to Give Her Husband All He Wanted

Jacob Bosch, too, believes that a man hould be prosecuted if he sells liquor to my man after that man has been any man after that man has been "flagged" by his wife.

He holds that if he did sell liquor to Adam Alexander at his saloon, 252 North 27th street, after his wife, Mrs. Virginia Alexander, asked him not to do so, that a jury ought to fing a verdict of $2500 which he should pay Mrs. Alexander, 2625 Huntingdon street.

But Mr. Bosch holds that he has not been given a square deal and that a "pack been given a square deal and that a "pack of lies have been trumped up against him" to secure the verdict for the woman.

"This is an awful thing," said Mr. Bosch when sitting with his daughter Ida Bosch when sitting with his daughter Ida and a representative of the Evening Ledger in his saloon today. "I have had this place since 1907, and all the people in this neighborhood can tell you that I have had a reputable and a decent place. This case came as an absolute surprise to me. I never thought I would have such an experience because I have tried to do the right thing. This woman never asked me to stop selling liquer to her husband. She did tell my bartender once and 15 minutes later came in and told him to sell 'Old Bean Belly' (that is told him to sell 'Old Bean Belly' (that is what she called him) all the liquor he could drink."

Mr. Bosch holds that Mr. Alexander came to his saloon as he would to a library or a club, that he seldom drank, and estimates that the man did not drink more than $100 on liquor in his saloon in the year before he died. He says, though, that the Alexanders always had liquor in their home.

"No one ever saw Adam go out of my saloon drunk," said Mr. Bosch with spirit,
"He, was a steady drinking man, but he never got drunk. Because of the dropsy, which all his family suffer from, perhaps the drinking was not good for him, but I am sure that what he got in my saloon never killed him. He was 5 feet 4 inches tall and weighed between 255 and 270 pounds, so you see, he was in some condition when he started to come here."

Then Mr. Bosch told, as he told in

BAKERS, TAKE NOTICE: BREAD MUST BE CLEAN

Rusty Nails, Buttonhooks and Other Foreign Substances

Bakers who are dirty and proud of it

There will be no more covering up the oil spots with flour. It has been found that the crisp brown crust of apparently nnocent bread often covers a mulfitude of

The campaign against careless bakers will be very rigorous. It is highly probable that these molders of the dough will have to remove their beards, chase their nustaches, keep their hair cut short and wear skin tight gloves and see that bread contains nothing but normal ingredients. Bald-headed, bare-faced bakers will be in

It is at least provoking to find such things as a rusty nail, a button hook, section of a brick, a carpet tack, hooks and eyes and other things among one's morning rolls. But these and even stranger things have been found. All of which goes to show that the dough which composes the bread or rolls might have been used as a bludgeon or a door mat in some dark mysterious cellar, where uch of our bread is produced.

The trouble is that many bakers make bread with about as much care as they shovel coal in the furnace. To them it's nerely a case of getting so many loaves baked for the morning. So much foreign matter has been found in bread that the State has taken the subject in hand.

JERSEY OPTIONISTS TO CALL ON "BILLY"

State Insists on Omission of Great Demonstration Planned Tomorrow at Trenton for Gaunt Bill

> TRENTON, Feb. 1.—Tomorrow will be "Local Option Day" at the New Jersey capital. Local optionists will gather here from all parts of the State and parade out to the "Billy" Sunday tabernacle, where resolutions will be passed at a mass-meeting indorsing the Gaunt local option bill now before the Legislature, and which was reported in the Senate without recommendation last Senate without recommendation last > night. After the mass-meeting at the taber-nacle, the local optionists, headed by bands, will march to the State House and there present to Senator Gaunt, of Glou-cester, introducer of the Anti-Saloon League's local option bill, a copy of the resolution.

Following this demonstration at the State House, the visitors will attend the afternoon services at the tabernacle. It is expected that the members of the Legeven islature also will be present in a body, as well as Governor Fielder clais. A resolution, that the Governor, the officials and the Legislature pay an official visit to "Billy" Sunday at the tabernacle, has been passed by both Houses and a Committee of Arrangements has been appointed.

The action of Mrs. Mohr's attorneys The action of Mrs. Mohr's attorneys came as a distinct surprise. Several witnesses, "including Emily Burger, the "other woman," who had been summoned, remained to be called, and it was expected several more d.ys might be required to complete her case. With the testimony of her lb-year-old son Charled disposed of yesterday, however, the climax of Mrs. Mohr's defense was reached and three additional witnesses were disposed of within an hour today.

The Rev. William McNamara and

The Rev. William McNamara and James J. Cronin gave testimony favorable to Mrs. Mohr. In that it cast doubt upon the story of George Healis, negro chauffeur, who turned State's evidence and declared the accused woman arranged for him to stop Doctor Mohr's car while the negroes, Brown and Speliman, shot him to death him to death. Cronin sald Healis told him "if he had known anything like the shooting was going to be pulled off he would not have been a party to it."
